

FW: CARBON TAX

Carbon tax part of a wider issue but an important leap.

To media...

There is a stirring fact that this civilization has manipulated the face of the earth and effected the atmosphere with disproportionate, dangerous mixes of natural and fabricated, supposedly clever gasses to dangerous levels, while rapidly removing the only serious natural mechanism/function that brings balance and purity to our atmosphere...land plants and vegetation of the sea...especially plankton and trees.

There is more evidence that concludes that we must draw the bridge on much of the manipulation of the earth, its crust, depths, water and atmosphere.

Sadly the ones who have created and supported most of the degradation and potential poisoning of the earth have made billions and would wish the status quo to remain till they have left the planet and continue to support their own temporary dynasty. They would share or take no responsibility or cost for prevention or cessation in good time...

Their clear agenda is for future generations to bear the cost and pain...

The future generations who did not implement the spoil and discover the current blatant perpetrators continued to richly exploit for the few and expand destructive elements of prosperity to few...

The new generations with the young now should be angry if the perpetrators of the past and the plunderers of now, building their aggressive short term temples, empires and dynasties of degradation to human life and blasphemy to the earth itself...contributed nothing to prevent what could be viewed now as a certain bleak outcome as early as within the next 50 years.

These perpetrators became excessively wealthy by being clever with science and greed as an accomplice. I suggest they find lateral and pragmatic methods of gentling down damaging product within ten years. Yes develop proven systems but purify your current practices...for your billions..

It is like having the finest bottle of wine(the earth) and as you drink it, you piddle it to keep it topped up!! That is what we are doing to the planet.

The Carbon tax should ensure that current and past perpetrators of catastrophic damage to the planet do not dodge their responsibility by shafting the rest of us and the planet to leave satisfied they had a good time with a huge tide of disaster in their wake.!!!

All providers and users of our cleverness and wealth must contribute to the progressive re-purification, though slightly modified broad needs of the planet and all life that exists there and why....Human patience, calm, good health, consolidation and peace.
